

The Toby and Leon Cooperman Therapy & Family Resource Center is different from other therapy centers in three distinct ways:

1. The TFRC is a “One-Stop Shop” for services outside of the home. You and your child have access to critical therapies that impact the trajectory of your child’s potential progress all in one location.
2. Financial assistance is available so that no family in need of services will be turned away.
3. JFS has a proven track record of providing complete wrap-around services for the entire family. Families at the TFRC have access to all of the services offered at JFS, thus ensuring that all are able to benefit from the self-care and mental health options necessary for well-being.

The TFRC is open to the entire community regardless of faiths. Because of its centralized location, families can take advantage of all on-campus services available, including those provided by other agencies such as the Adolph & Rose Levis JCC.

Hours of Operation:

“The creation of the Therapy and Family Resource Center fills a niche that is sorely lacking in our community. Almost weekly, one of my friends, neighbors, or associates share stories of their own special needs journey. A “one-stop shop” where we can access all of the varying therapy modalities, with managed care and resources for the entire family, would enable my family and our community to thrive.”

OF SOUTH PALM BEACH COUNTY

Adolph & Rose Levis Jewish Community Center

Children with special needs require extraordinary care.

The TFRC believes that the best results are achieved when all aspects of a child's life are taken into consideration. The best possible treatment is one that is customized for each individual.

Services Provided Through the TFRC

The Objectives of the TFRC

- To provide children with varying needs and abilities affordable access to treatment and therapies that allow them to realize their maximum developmental, educational, and personal potential
- To equip parents and other caregivers with the necessary information and support to ensure a therapeutic continuum
- To provide education and guidance needed to build stronger families

Recognizing the importance of each family and their individualized needs, the TFRC offers a range of information services, guidance, accompaniment and support, in addition to prescribed therapies, in order to help the families of children and young adults with disabilities improve their quality of life.

Program Description

The Toby and Leon Cooperman Therapy & Family Resource Center (TFRC) is an expansion of the existing JFS special needs program. It services children with special needs from birth to 22 years of age and their families.

The TFRC offers a variety of therapy options, support groups, classes, and workshops for the whole family. Our team of professionals help guide you through your journey of raising a special needs child. With a variety of services and therapies provided under one roof, our Center is a welcoming "home" for families of special needs individuals.
